

BAX Securities Law announces ongoing sponsorship of the TBLA

Toronto, September 19, 2018: BAX Securities Law (BAX) is pleased to announce that the firm will be supporting the solo, small and mid size law firm community by providing the annual sponsorship of the Toronto Business Lawyers Association (TBLA), a forum for business lawyers in downtown Toronto and the GTA for business and professional development purposes.

Barbara Hendrickson, Managing Partner of BAX commented, "We are pleased to be sponsoring the TBLA for a third year in a row. There will always be a need for lawyers in small and mid-size firms to grow their referral network and the TBLA monthly breakfasts are an excellent opportunity to do that." She added, "The TBLA also provides solo/small firm lawyers the opportunity for professional development, in areas of specific relevance and interest to them."

The Toronto Business Lawyers Association was created by Barbara Hendrickson over two years ago to provide business lawyers in the small and mid-size law firms to have a forum in downtown Toronto to get together regularly for business and professional development purposes. The TBLA meetings are held once a month (the third Thursday of each month) at 8:30 AM at Marche in Brookfield Place in downtown Toronto. The Association is open to lawyers in solo, small and mid size firms that practice in the business law area – tax, employment law, commercial real estate, franchises, securities, corporate, financial services, etc...

There are over 500 lawyers on the TBLA members list and most of the monthly meetings feature a speaker of specific interest to lawyers in small and mid size firms.

If you are a business lawyer in the GTA please feel free to come out to one of the TBLA monthly breakfasts.
